NEW YORK (AP) — W. Averell Harriman, who leaves for Paris this week to negotiate with the North Vietnamese, said Monday night the United States cannot run out on the South Vietnamese.

"The United States now has a commitment on which it must make good," President Johnson's 77-year-old special envoy told the second annual Memorial Day Birthday-Memorial Award Dinner. "In its simplest form it is to permit the people of South Vietnam to decide their own future without outside interference."

The American and the North Vietnamese appeared to be approaching an agreement to hold their preliminary peace talks in the Majestic Hotel in Paris, once a luxury hotel which has also been occupied by Hitler's Gestapo and UNESCO, the U.N. Educational, Scientific and Cultural Organization.

Some U.S. officials were reported fearful that French university students who have been demonstrating and rioting for the past week over educational

25 Men Still Trapped In Flooded Mine

HOMINY, Okla. (UPI)—A receding water level today encouraged crews trying to rescue 25 men trapped in three groups inside a flooded coal mine in southeastern West Virginia.

The water depth had dropped one foot, enabling crews to move pumps ahead another 30 feet to a point 880 feet inside the mountain side entrance of the Gauley Coal and Coke Co. No. 8 mine.

Thousands of gallons of water cascaded into the Gauley mine about noon Monday when a crew cutting coal broke through to a nearby abandoned mine which was flooded.

Groups of 12, 2 and 10 miners were at work in the mine when the stream burst out along two miles of underground passageways which slopes irregularly down hill from the Gauley mine entrance.

The men closest to the entrance clustered at the entrance spot a tunnel in the passageway about a mile from the entrance — received plastic containers of sandwiches, water, coffee, tools, blankets and oxygen today.

City Deeds

It was necessary for the city to cancel a bid from Folger Equipment Co. for an oil distributor for the street department. Accepting the low bid from Stetson Equipment Co., Boise, Folger representatives advised they would be unable to complete the contract because of labor strikes.

A new franchise agreement with Cabot Vilson was authorized. The new franchisee will pay the present time to 1988. The previous franchise was charged at a rate of $200 per year. In the future the firm will pay the city a fee based on gross receipts and ranging from one-half to one per cent for the first five years in two per cent from 1984 to 1988.

City Manager Herb Derrick announced plans for two meetings to discuss airport plans. He said the airport commission, major carriers, city and county officials will be invited to review progress and make plans for future air facilities.

It was also announced the annual meeting of the Idaho Association of Cities will be June 20, 21 and 22 in Pocatello. City officials were asked to plan to attend at least part of the session if possible.

City Manager Derrick and Paul Newton reported on programs of the water works department. A $100,000 payment for work during April, Delweller Brothers, working the third phase of the project completed $86,841.00 in work during April. Other payments included Koopler Construction Co. $7,363.81; Newell J. Olson, $1,000; and Northern Advertising, $1,000. Prudential Insurance Co. $10,000 for work in the old reservoir near the filter plant.

WASHINGTON.—I do not know whether a Washington police officer need be guilty of homicide in shooting a looter during the recent civil rights exercise, but I worry about him. In America every cop, presumably, is innocent until proved guilty, but the nation's cops have become hellish. U.S.A., and Loraine had better get his affairs in order.

From the evidence submitted to a coroner's jury, there is no question that at the height of the rioting—the looter was unarmed—and the officer was unarmed. It also showed that he refused to stop when challenged by Loraine. Yet the jury took only 15 minutes to reach a verdict of homicide. Not accidental or justifiable homicide, but murder.

This case has frightened everyone for the following reasons: protection of her person and property by constituted authority because it suggests the rules have been changed in as it were, mid-stream. It implies that while everybody is equal, a cop is less equal than a suspect.

1164. Section 175 of the District of Columbia Code (1967) makes it a crime for any policeman or anyone else to "assist in the escape of anyone from any place lawfully held."

So far as I know, no one has suggested that the victim—if I may employ a euphemism—was merely browsing through the shop. He was in a state of siege and understood martial law, and citizens presumably ventured to Loraine's defense. Yet Loraine was under oath to prevent crime, and until proved otherwise, it must be accepted that he was only doing his job.

But no, I suppose there is nothing stranger about all this. The case is an example of the new double standard imposed by politicians and their tame police administrators to woo votes from minority blocs. Only several hours before the rioting, Carmichael had urged a crowd of Negroes to go home and "get a gun," a performance coincident with the start of the rioting. Yet, at this writing, Carmichael is still walking the streets free to indulge his avocation—famous for revolts of Columbia University students.

Washington Director of Public Safety, Paul Murphy, has instructed his police to shoot looters and arsonists.

Meanwhile, thousands upon thousands of looters and arsonists have gone free all over the country, including the animal whose hulking Molotov-cocktail burned a Negro infant in his cradle.

They went free because of the policy of "restraint" for which politicians have been congratulating one another every hour of the hour. They went free because the rioters in Washington were assured that troops called in to quell the outbreak carried unloaded guns. That they were free because politicians wanted the cops it was now their duty to break the law and "assent to the escape" of felons caught in the act.

There are, of course, bad cops, brutal cops, who beat up people, but, hopefully, they are in a minority, and in any case their activities should be strictly controlled by their bosses—or their bosses should be set to counting paper clips in some bureaucratic cubicle. There has been nothing but the exercise of the split-second judgment which is not only the cop's prerogative but his sworn duty.

Washington Director of Public Safety, Paul Murphy, has instructed his police to shoot looters and arsonists. Hell City's citizens should rise up and force Murphy to walk a beat some dark night and determine how many muggings and rapes are committed, and exacting a finger-to-the-penitentiary and murmuring, "Naughty, Naughty!"

Witch Hazel

Q—I have heard that placing pieces of cotton-soaked in witch hazel on one's closed eyelids is a good way of relaxing and rejuvenating. Is this true? Is it safe—putting hazel so close to one's eye?

A—Witch hazel water has no special powers but it does smell good. If a little got in your eye it would prove mildly irritating but the tears would wash it away and no permanent harm would result.

Q—What's the cause of blepharitis? Is it due to smog? None of the medicines I have used has helped me. Is there any cure for it?

A—Blepharitis—or—inflammation of the lids may be caused by irritation, cosmetics or uncorrected errors of refraction, especially conjunctivitis, which, if caused by extension, cause or aggravate a blepharitis. In some persons blepharitis is an indication of poor general health. Improvement would follow closer attention to adequate rest, diet and exercise.

Q—The blepharitis is chronic. It is often hard to cure. Keeping the lids clean and free of crusts and applying yellow ointment of mercury ointment every night should help.

Q—My eyes are dry and burn when I sleep. My doctor gives me drops but they relieve the burning only temporarily. What do you advise?

It's Inefficient

WASHINGTON (AP)—It would be hard to design a more haphazard, inefficient system than that by which the United States nominates its presidential candidates. It could also be argued that the method is the best way to insure that the nation's top political talent is better suited to the national temper in this election year.

At a time of national uncertainty, a hovering between war and peace, a groping for answers to racial, urban and economic problems, the system is keeping the political situation fluid.

It permits Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller of New York to become a full-fledged candidate for the Republican nomination and score at least a psychological victory.

It permits Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey to go from non-candidate to strong contender in the Democratic contest without having faced a rival in a single primary.

It permits Sen. Eugene J. McCarthy, D-Minn., to turn a quiet one-man crusade into a full-fledged campaign; and Sen. Robert F. Kennedy, D-N.Y., to drop out of the race, leaving himself the hopeful to maintain a "decorum" as he was all out clientele."

"Next week I'll tell you about two hornia operations that were planned months in advance in the same day without either playboy knowing it."

The water mark. In 1964 only 16 states let the voters help pick the candidates. This year it's down to 13.

Most states still use conventions—some use both conventions and primaries. It is hard to find even two states that follow the same pattern.

In addition, the states act over a time span beginning in March and extending right up to the national conventions.

This, then, is the American way of political life for a candidate and it is bound to impress its peculiar logic on him.

Consequently, the opportunity offered by the New Hampshire and Wisconsin primaries to get at least a tentative reading on voter attitudes toward the Vietnam war and President Johnson that led McCarthy to act.

McCarthy's success brought in Kennedy and forced Johnson to declare a hand he might well have preferred to conceal for a while. And the fact that not enough states hold presidential primaries to give any candidate a lock on the nomination let McCarthy and his supporters make their boldest move.

Like a Rube Goldberg contraption, it works. But you can be sure the unmasking is not over.

ANOTHER WEEK OF THERAPY AND YOU'LL BE ABLE TO WALK WITHOUT THE CANE OR VIAL.

OP

The Candidate

As of right now, it's official and Frank Church will seek re-election as United States Senator from Idaho.

This announcement makes the anticipated, no-holds-barred race for that post between George Hansen, now the state's second-district congressman, and Mr. Church a reality.

Mr. Church, the Democrat, and Mr. Hansen, the Republican, will surely face no contests with anyone until they meet head-on on the official ballots in November. Opposition to either candidate in the primary would be a waste of time both to these two men and to the individuals or individual who would anticipate running.

In announcing he would run, Senator Church said that he asks "the people for another vote of confidence." He is now nearing the end of his second six-year term. On the other hand Mr. Hansen has been in the House for two terms but seeks to move up to the Senate where, he says, he can do more for the people of the state.

The race between these two young men will, no doubt, develop into one of the most interesting of Idaho's history. Both have strong ideas in many fields and both tend to express these ideas and let the chips fall where they may. Both men vote their own mind on many issues.

Unlike Mr. Hansen, who announced his candidacy in a series of "whistle stop" airport visitations across the state, Mr. Church chose a simple letter of intent, accompanied with a biography outlining his accomplishments.

Now, with both men declared, it will ultimately be up to the voters of the state. Many of these voters have not, as yet, made up their minds. This is to be expected in view of the international and national situations of upheaval and turmoil.

The result of this particular race in Idaho will tie in with these international problems. Today's voters, for the most part, are well informed and a candidate will be tripped up if he utilizes the old system of tell them one thing here and another there. In other words, tell them what they want to hear and let it go at that.

This system no longer holds weight with most voters. That's why the race between Mr. Church and Mr. Hansen will be most interesting. Both men speak as they see and this is good for politics in this state.

Hospitals: A Status Symbol

are rising at such a phenomenal rate that some experts predict it is conceivable in 15 or 20 years that a room at a good hospital will cost $700 a day.

If this is true, and it's hard to imagine it isn't, going to a hospital will become a status symbol for the very rich only. Just as owning a yacht and a stable of horses has been in the past.

Society editors will be assigned to cover hospitals, and this is how a society column might read in the future:

"Mrs. William Vanderwhelp of Newport and Sag Point has checked into a private hospital after suffering a heart attack in Palm Beach wearing a Courreges gown, especially made for her. Mrs. Vanderwhelp said, 'They will criticize me for going to the hospital, but I think of you've got the money and the time to go right along with that that goes with it.'

"At the same hospital was Reginald Winthrop, Clover, heir to the Jeanne Breakfast Cereal fortune who just had an appendicitis. Asked what the operation cost, Reginald replied, 'To summarize, J. P. Morgan, if you have to ask what it costs to have an operation, you can afford one.'

"Meanwhile up at Ross Hill Hospital, Mary Lou Astorwood gave birth to a baby boy. Since it was their first child the Astorwoods took a private room which cost them $10,000 for the week. The proud father, Father Clyde Astorwood, said, 'The Astorwoods have always had their babies in hospitals, delivered by a doctor, and there is no reason for the press to make an issue over it.' I think you should be able to spend your inheritance as you darn well please."

"There is still a battle raging at the Maple Leaf Lower Hospital between the board of directors decided to admit charity patients, who could only afford to pay $500 a day, for a bed in the ward, Bari Clogs, well, the oil tycoon, said that by changing their admittance policies, Maple Leaf would be able to keep the hospital open.

Davis' orchestra was hired to play for her after she got back to her room. She had special gowns designed for the surgeons and nurses. It was probably the most lavish gall stone operation of the year, and could only be compared with Truman Capote's famous ball at the Metropole, when Truman rebuilt the operating room amphitheater to look like Madrid bullfight ring."

"Odds and ends: What doctor is thinking of settling the broken arm on what former debutante who has been married four times, Did Lily Fitzwhistle, the spark plug heiress, check in recently? No, she's a personality material for silicon discs?"

"The Duchess of Alameyhem claims she is tired of going to Queen Mother's Hospital in London for her ulcer, and she would have all her ulcer work done in the future at Arthur's Sanitarium in New York. Most of the hospital's patients go there."

Frank Sinatra was turned away for treatment from Boston Hospital after a fight the other night because he wasn't wearing a tie. When he told a reporter whom he had turned to a chief surgeon replied, "Don't care if you're a star. Bring him himself, the hospital has to maintain a 'decoration,' or we'll lose all our clientele."

Ever since George Washington became unavailable for another presidential term the nation has experimented with a variety of presidential candidates.

The reform movement in the early 20th Century that replaced the power-dominated state nominating conventions with direct primaries, leading toward a national point in the citizen in plain view of several witnesses has come to Loraine's defense. Yet Loraine was under oath to prevent crime, and until proved otherwise, it must be accepted that he was only doing his job.

But no, I suppose there is nothing stranger about all this. The case is an example of the new double standard imposed by politicians and their tame police administrators to woo votes from minority blocs.

There is, of course, bad cops, who beat up their victims, but hopefully, they are in a minority, and in any case their activities should be strictly controlled by their bosses—or their bosses should be set to counting paper clips in some bureaucratic cubicle.

Meanwhile, thousands upon thousands of looters and arsonists have gone free all over the country, including the animal whose hulking Molotov cocktail burned a Negro infant in his cradle.

Pulitzer Prizes Awarded

NEW YORK (AP) — The 1968 Pulitzer Prize for fiction has been awarded to William Styron's controversial novel, "The Confessions of Nat Turner," which was based on an 1831 Negro slave revolt.

John S. Knight, and staff members of two of his newspapers were honored with Pulitzer Prizes for journalistic excellence—a triple triumph unique in the 52-year history of the awards.

Knight, editor and director of the Knight Newspapers, won one for distinguished service in writing. Edward Gray Payne of Knight, Charlotte, N.C., Observer, was named the outstanding editorial cartoonist of 1967.

The staff of Knight's Detroit Free Press, which has been down since last year in a strike, was cited for its "distinguished reporting of the 1967 Detroit riots and their causes."

The prize for International Reporting was awarded to Alfred Friendly of the Washington Post for his coverage of the Middle East war in 1967.

Arthur Lukas of the New York Times was the prizewinner for local investigative reporting for his account of the life and murder of Linda Filzpatrick. She was slain with her hippie boyfriend in a condemned basement boiler room in New York.

In the arts and letters, Will Durant and his wife, Arel, won the general nonfiction prize with "Rousseau and Revolution." It is the 10th and concluding volume of "The Story of Civilization" series.

The history award went to Bernard Bailyn for "The Ideological Origins of the American Revolution." He has written extensively on American history.

The poetry prize went to Anthony Hecht for "The Hard Hours," his fourth work.

George Crumb received the music prize for his orchestral "Echogen" and "Water Music."

"River," performed for the first time May 26, 1967 by the Chicago Symphony Orchestra.

Soviets Deny Charges In Czech Paper

MOSCOW (AP) — The Soviet government denied today charges in Czechoslovakia's official Communist party newspaper that the Soviet Union through agents of Stalin's secret police played a part in the killing of the Czechoslovak foreign minister.

The government said in a statement released by the official news agency Tass that Masaryk committed suicide.

The statement attacked "Western press organs and also some Czechoslovak newspapers" for casting doubt on the official suicide version, implicating the Soviet secret police.

It was the first time since the liberalization program in Czechoslovakia began that the country has been openly criticized here. The criticism came during a visit of the Czechoslovak Foreign Minister Jirí Hajek.

Tass, unauthorized to state most firmly that these reports were false, said the Soviet government lies from beginning to end," the statement said.

"Those who circulate them have quite a definite aim in view—try, if only by this provocative way, to sow distrust between two friendly states, the Soviet Union and Czechoslovakia."

The Communist party newspaper Pravda said in its Prague edition April 18 that "Masaryk not only was murdered, but it was a case of political murder."

The son of Czechoslovakia's first president, Masaryk, was anti-Communist. His body was found in the courtyard of the Foreign Ministry and the cause of death was ruled suicide.

Senator To Expose March Plans

By WILLIAM MORAN

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. John J. McClellan says he'll expose plans by parties as yet unnamed to turn the Poor People's Campaign in Washington into a riot.

The Arkansas Democrat, chairman of a Senate investigations subcommittee, said he'll reveal what the plans are when he said plan to move in during the planned nonviolent demonstration and "engage in rioting and battling."

His comments in the Senate came as Congress was considering Monday to bill aimed at limiting use of federal property by demonstrators for camping.

The Rev. Ralph David Abernathy, president of the Southern Christian Leadership Conference, is organizing caravans of poor people heading for Washington from Southern towns and cities across the nation.

PHYLLIS McCLEARY

Miss McCleary,
Chafin Slate
May Wedding

KING HILL — Mr. and Mrs. Glenn O. McCleary announced the engagement and forthcoming marriage of their daughter, Phyllis, to Daniel Chafin, son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Chafin, all King Hill.

Miss McCleary is a 1968 graduate of the Glens Ferry High School and held office in 1968 Future Homemakers of America and on the Student Honor Council.

Mr. Chafin is a 1968 graduate of the Glens Ferry High School and member of the FBLA and Student Honor Council.

A May 31 wedding is planned at the King Hill United Presbyterian Church.

DEAR CURIOUS: For personal reasons, I would like to know who would be the most specific to elicit an even more unfavorable reaction. Abby, what sort of reason should I give? — CURIOS.

DEAR CURIOUS: For personal reasons, I would like to know who would be the most specific to elicit an even more unfavorable reaction. To be more specific, would elicit an even more unfavorable reaction. And to be foolish.

DEAR ABBY: Recently my husband informed me that he had planned everything over for our children in the event of his death. He said his reason for doing this was that I would probably get a boy friend, and he doesn't see why he should leave me money to spend on a boyfriend.

We have been married four years and have two children; have never stopped to think about the future; I just assumed that we would be in rocking chairs together, holding our grandchildren. I am thinking,

"When I asked him how I was supposed to live if something happened to him first, he said I could live with one of the children."

He refuses to let me go back to work to contribute to my future and I can't see myself job-hunting in my old age.

What can I do besides die first?

WORRIED

DEAR WORRIED: See a good lawyer and tell him what you've told me. Then ask for his advice. You may be pleasantly surprised.

CONFIDENTIAL TO UPSET IN NEWARK: For goodness sake, don't do it. You can take him off the road. It won't help. If a man is going to cheat, he will cheat on his lunch hour.

Everybody has a problem. What's yours? For a personal reply write to Abby, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Cal. 90069 and enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

ROAST TOGETHER: Two large roasts, a large joint and a small pork roast together. The meats pick up the taste from each other and the gravy is especially delicious.

Mrs. Olson was assisted in serving a dessert luncheon by her daughters, Alice Woodley and Maxine Van Buren.

EAST HOLDS ALL CARD GOODIES

West's one no-trump overcall showed the equivalent of an opening notrump. North's two-heart bid indicated a poor hand with heart support. With a good hand, North would have doubled.

spades and queen of clubs. He had to find some way to eliminate one of those black losers. One method would be to play his ace and queen of spades. If West held exactly two spades, he would be end-played then and there. If West held three or four spades, East would have five and probably would have bid some number of spades. So the spade play was out.

Only one line that could succeed remained and Sidney adopted it. He played ace, king and nine of clubs. He played the nine because it was just possible that, in an original holding of four clubs, West might well have held the jack and dueces.

It wasn't likely that West would fail for this play, but it was likely that he didn't hold as many as four clubs. So Sidney played clubs and, when West took his queen, he had to lead away from his king of spades in order to avoid giving Sidney a ruff and discard.

bled; East's three-diamond-call was competitive, while South's four-trump to four hearts was the bid that anyone else would have made.

West opened the king of diamonds and continued with the ace. The last Sidney Silodor, who sat South, ruffed the second diamond and led hearts. West won the second heart and returned the diamond. Silodor was down with two tricks lost and two more potential losers.

It would be simple enough to try both black finesses, but Sidney did not even consider that line of play. He simply counted up the points for a 16-18 no-trump and saw that West was marked with both the king of clubs and the queen of spades.

TOKAW'S QUESTION

The bidding had been the same except that East and West bid diamonds not clubs. What do you do over East's five diamond bid?

He Wants Sis To Go Away

Dear Walt: I wish you'd say something in the newspaper to wanted these other kids to see the girls who play around and what "hard up" really is. Sis don't realize what it does to them. My sis is getting married again—and she's not married. Every time my friends come over she runs and hides, but several times she has if he thinks she can make it. The girl is very nice but no one except her father would ever want to marry her. I'm afraid she'll be left alone. —Sister

Dear Spot: It's hard to say when they make cracks, but it's awfully hard to hold back.

It doesn't seem fair for me and the rest of the family to have to pay for her fun. At least I think she's still trying to have the baby and she's not wave it in everyone's face.

—Brother

Dear Brother: Our country is hypocritical about this subject. Few families would claim to be untouched by pre-marriage sex. Yet we pretend it's rare when it's happening to us all the time. I'm suggesting publicly to your schoolmates that they find a mean-much more than your neighborhood school offered by the local YWCA or quality department store, and the price is right.

With no funds needed for school functions, push her to volunteer. After a time, she'll find her own answer and it will be something important to talk and kid about and that they let her off the hook!

As for your sister's dashing looks, she will break up before the prom; she's still required to take him? —Betrayed.

Dear Betrayed: If the break-up was hostile you can certainly cancel the date; anyone up to that will run away.

In any case, this experience must offer you some guidelines for your own romantic life. If you are talking about putting another girl and her family through this experience? —Walt.

If you're split with the understanding that you'd stay friends, why not prove it by going through with your plans to laugh at her and think about your new pal with her? —Elaine

Dear Ele and Walt: I have a going through with your plans to laugh at her and think about your new pal with her. —Elaine

If they live here, they'd be from time and formal parties. My mother restricts my sister, don't occur very often, but when age 16, and me, age 15, to one they'd want to be aware a month, and then only of some of the special—and everyday—etiquette involved to a church gathering. —Walt.

If you're split with the understanding that you'd stay friends, why not prove it by going through with your plans to laugh at her and think about your new pal with her? —Elaine
